SECTION 1. TYPES OF MEMBERSHIP

This federation is composed of two (2) types of memberships.

a. Breed clubs

A maximum of two clubs, operating nationally, may represent one breed. When a breed is represented by two clubs, one of the clubs must be affiliated with the Canadian Kennel Club ("CKC").

Where a breed is represented by a single club member of the CWDF and that club is also a member of the CKC, a second club for that breed may only apply for membership with the approval of the existing member club for that breed.

Where a breed is represented by a single club member of the CWDF and that club is NOT a member of the CKC, the CKC breed club may apply for membership without the approval of the existing breed club.

When a breed is represented by a single club, it may have up to two delegates to the CWDF; the President or his or her designee, plus one other person chosen by the club. If a delegate ceases membership in their respective club during their term, he or she must resign their position.

When a breed is represented by two clubs, each club may have only one delegate to the CWDF; the President or his or her designee. If a delegate ceases membership in their respective club during their term, he or she must resign their position.

b. Multi-breed clubs supporting a service or sport program other than IGP

Multi-breed clubs based in Canada will support and advance a specific service or sport program that is regulated by the FCI Utility Dogs Commission; Multi-breed clubs must be less than one half of total CWDF club memberships. Each multibreed club will have one delegate to the CWDF; the President or his or her designee. If a delegate ceases membership in their respective club during their term, he or she must resign their position.
